Carling Cup Final Showdown

London calling as Carling Final turns into a capital event

ROLL OF HONOUR

Get ready for the first-ever all-London final in the 47-year history of the League Cup.

The competition, now sponsored by Carling, has never before seen two clubs from the capital facing each other in the showpiece event.

Chelsea v Arsenal. It promises to be a classic.

Arsene Wenger's youngsters have set the competition alight with their all-out attacking football, massive work rate, and the way they play with smiles on their faces.

Now Chelsea, the current Premiership champions, will provide them with the ultimate test on one of the great football stages - the Millennium Stadium, Cardiff.

By ANDY LULHAM

Wenger has said he will stick with the rookies who have played so brilliantly in the competition so far. Hoyte, Denilson, Fabregas, Diaby, Walcott and Aliadiere should all feature.

So no room in the squad for master blaster Thierry Henry - although his pre-match presence in the dressing room will be massive. And you can bet there will be a pitchside seat near Wenger, too.

But this is Chelsea. A Chelsea in danger of losing their Champions' crown. A Chelsea that has never been far from controversy all season.

But a Chelsea with Frank Lampard on top form, Michael Essien with a new contract in his pocket and Didier Drogba on fire in front of goal.

The big stage may spark the best from Shevchenko or Ballack.

If that turns out to be the case the young Gunners will have their work cut out.

For the 72,000 fans who pack into the Cardiff cauldron that is the Millennium Stadium one thing is sure. The all-London final will be a capital affair.

UNITED THEY STAND: Last season's Carling Cup winners Manchester United celebrate their victory at the Millennium Stadium

900 to get lucky tickets

By ANDY LULHAM

Sponsors Carling are handing over to Arsenal and Chelsea fans almost 900 match tickets.

This represents the company's entire ticket allocation for backing the event.

And, in another break with tradition, 200 fans from the two clubs will be pre-match guests in Carling sponsor's suites at the Millennium Stadium.

Carling Cup Sponsorship Manager Richard Smith said: "This final is sometimes referred to as the fans' final, as a higher percentage of the tickets than at other major finals are made available to supporters."

Carling is working closely with The Football League and both clubs to ensure the tickets are fairly distributed to fans via the clubs and official supporters' associations.

In a further push to make the final more fan friendly, the sponsors have scrapped the usual formal dress code in favour of club colours, jeans, trainers, scarves and flags.

Smith added: "They're off to watch the football with their mates, not going to a wedding, so why should they have to dress up for the occasion?"

Pub in a box!

Two London pubs are being re-created inside the Millennium Stadium to make the Chelsea and Arsenal fans feel right at home.

Sponsors Carling took notice of a recommendation from their fans' Cabinet to generate a pub atmosphere around the Final.

So they will make two hospitality boxes look like Gooners' favourite The Bailey, Highbury, and Blues' pub Riley's from the King's Road.

Memorabilia from the pubs will be on show - and assistant landlady Sonia Christie from The Bailey, and Riley's owner Vince Healey, will be there to welcome the lucky supporters.

Cabinet meeting sets agenda for fans' final

A history-making 'cabinet meeting' of football fans has helped shape this year's showpiece Carling Cup Final.

Sponsors Carling called in supporters from the four clubs that made the semi finals - Arsenal, Chelsea, Wycombe and Spurs - to put in their ideas for making the event even more fantastic!

The Carling Cabinet quickly pulled together a framework of initiatives which include:

Perimeter boards

The Cabinet said fans don't want to see flashing and rotating perimeter boards which may distract players or supporters.

Carling has decided to use static perimeter boards on Sunday.

Matchday programme

The Cabinet believes fans want more of a voice at the final - to wish players all the best and generally get things off their chest.

Carling has devoted a page in the programme to fans of both clubs.

Crowd celebration

The Cabinet said fans want to be more involved in the trophy celebration.

Carling has plans to make this happen.

Fans who cannot make it to Cardiff

The Cabinet wanted somewhere in London for fans to watch the match if they could not get tickets.

Carling has spoken to Sky Sports about a number of special HD screenings in pubs in the capital.

Pub atmosphere

Fans love watching football in pubs with a great atmosphere, the Cabinet reported.

Carling are bringing a flavour of the 'local' to the Millennium Stadium on Cup Final day.

Carling Cup sponsorship manager Richard Smith said: "After giving our allocation of tickets back to the fans last year we wanted to take it a stage further this year by inviting fans to help us plan the final.

"We worked closely with The Football League and Millennium Stadium to see how we could put the findings of the Carling Cabinet into place."

League puts £70,000 into Children in Need

The Football League is making a contribution of £70,000 to this year's BBC Children in Need Appeal through a £1 donation from each ticket sold for Sunday's Carling Cup Final

This gesture has been made possible by the co-operation and support of the Premier League.

The money raised will be presented to BBC Children in Need host Sir Terry Wogan by Football League chairman Lord Mawhinney prior to kick-off.

This new donation underlines The League's ongoing support for the BBC Children in Need Appeal.

Before each of the last

PUDSEY: League support
three Carling Cup finals 'money can't buy' packages have been auctioned off on Radio 2.

Top bidders won the chance to go on to the Millennium Stadium pitch pre-match to meet the teams with Lord Mawhinney.

He said: "Having raised some £30,000 for BBC Children in Need over the last three seasons we have taken this opportunity to use the power of football to change even more children's lives.

"We would like to thank Premier League chief executive Richard Scudamore for helping us make this happen."

Sir Terry Wogan said: "The Football League have been among our greatest supporters for many years. Yet again they've scored for Children in Need."

The Football League recognises that, as a brewer of alcoholic drinks, competition sponsors Carling are prevented from having any involvement with activity linked to children.

Going for Gold

The PUMA Golden Boot trophies will go to the top goalscorers in each division. The keeper in each division with the most clean sheets will get a Golden Glove. Goals scored and clean sheets in The Football League, Carling Cup, FA Cup, and Johnstone's Paint Trophy will all count towards the golden awards at the end of the season.

Legends back at Palace

By HAYLEY SMITH

Selhurst Park will go back in time to re-stage one of the most famous FA Cup ties ever played - to support Eagles legend Geoff Thomas' Leukaemia appeal.

A Crystal Palace XI will play a Liverpool side on Tuesday March 20 in a re-run of their classic 1990 FA Cup semi-final which Palace won 4-3.

The game was recently voted by Eagles fans as their favourite ever. The match will feature many of the players who featured in the seven-goal thriller.

Palace's famous Wright-Bright strike partnership (Ian and Mark) and Liverpool legends John Barnes, Ronnie Whelan and Jan Molby are already confirmed.

The match is in aid of the Geoff Thomas Leukaemia Foundation. For more information visit www.geoff-thomas.com

Martin sparks the Power Rangers...

HINSHELWOOD: Passing on training tips

When it comes to learning about power play, Brighton Director of Football Martin Hinshelwood is the man.

He has just put Sussex County Sunday Leaguers Preston Park Rangers through their paces in the latest Powerade Cup special training session.

And the lads now know what it takes to make it as a pro.

Rangers chairman Andy Weale said: "We enjoyed our session with Martin. We picked up some useful tips to take into our next matches. It's great that Powerade are helping amateur clubs."

The Rangers will get three more sessions with Hinshelwood as part of the Powerade Cup competition which launched this season.

FA-registered 11-a-side teams can go in for the Powerade Cup by entering their details at www.virginradio.co.uk and explaining why they need training with a coach from The

A judging panel headed by football pundit Chris Kamara will pick the most deserving teams who will get four training sessions targeting mental and physical strength, as well as hydration tips.

Eight winning teams will play off at the end of the season at a Football League ground to win the Powerade Cup and an all expenses paid trip to Barcelona's magnificent Nou Camp stadium. The prize includes a private tour of the home of the Champions League holders, two matches against local teams, return flights and transfers for 16 people and three nights at a three-star hotel.

Powerade is recommended and used by all the clubs in The Football League.

Double dose of Dowies

By ANDY LULHAM

There will be a different Dowie taking centre stage at the Ricoh Arena tomorrow – as Iain's niece Natasha takes part in the Ricoh Cup.

Hot on the heels of her uncle's appointment as Sky Blues' boss, the 18-year-old Charlton Ladies striker will be part of a Ricoh All-Stars side taking on the Coventry City ladies team.

The match, starting at 10.55am, kicks off a day of free entertainment to mark the official opening of the Ricoh Arena.

Coventry manager Dowie said: "Natasha is a much more prolific striker than I was. I'm just delighted for her because she is a good player in her own right."

The Made in Coventry day will also include live music, theatre and comedy.
